What do you think is happening in the two pictures below?

Pretty yucky huh? Luckily it no longer happens in the UK unless it is raining heavily and there are combined sewers.

Below shows what happens at a sewage treatment plant when it is raining.

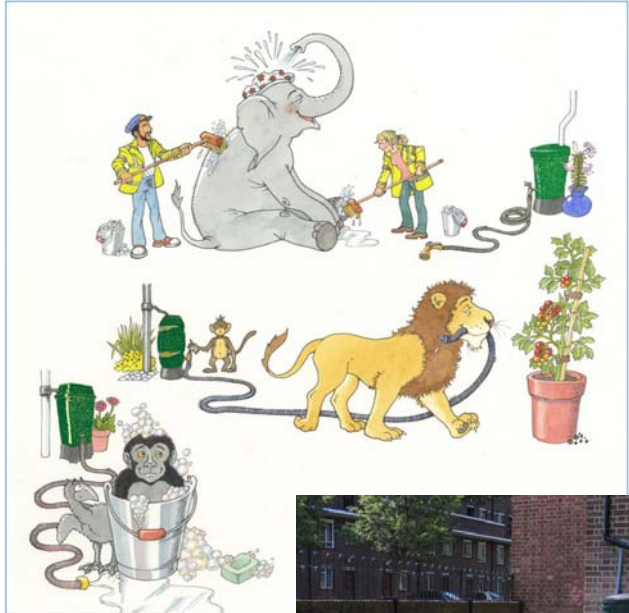

Even when it is raining we don't want Clarence to get poo on his head. We want Clarence to get clean water all the time. So how can we do this? Frankie the flamingo had an idea.

1. When it's raining we all stop poeing!
2. When it's raining we somehow stop the rainwater getting into the sewer!
3. When it's raining Clarence can just go on holiday to Spain!

Circle the one above you think is the best idea.

Below are some other solutions.

They are:

1. Build a super sewer
2. Put in rain gardens or rain garden planters
3. Build a flamingo pool and fill it with rain
4. Collect rainwater and use it for things you don't need tap water for

Which do you like best and why?
